Funding high-potential candidates

ESMT offers partial tuition scholarships for accepted Master's in Management students who show academic merit.

Scholarships are allocated based on academic excellence, personal and professional achievement, leadership potential, and interpersonal skills. Candidates from analytical subject areas like science, technology, engineering, finance, economics or mathematics are especially encouraged to apply, although scholarships have been awarded to candidates with backgrounds in international relations, finance, and business studies as well.

To receive a scholarship, candidates first apply to the Master's in Management program. There is an extra essay available for applicants to explain their suitability for a scholarship.
